

TUESDAY, NOV. 5, 2019

CLIMATE SCIENCE 102

CLIMATE VARIABILITY AND CHANGES: IMPACT ON AGRICULTURE AND
FORESTRY IN FLORIDA

Dr. David Zierden, the State Climatologist of Florida and Associate in Research at the Center for Ocean-Atmospheric Prediction Studies at FSU, will speak on the vulnerability of agriculture to climate change with emphasis on climate variability and changes in Florida. Dr. Zierden researches climate impacts on agriculture and forestry along with opportunities and limitation for adaptation.

Presented at the
Boyd Hill Nature Preserve

Lake Maggiore
Environmental Education Center

1101 Country Club Way S.
St. Petersburg, FL 33705

7 to 8:30 pm

Speaker

Dr. David Zierden,
FSU and State
Climatologist

CONTACT

DR. REBECCA JOHNS

Director, Community
Outreach and Education, iCAR (Initiative on Coastal Adaptation and Resilience)

727-873-4556

rjohns@mail.usf.edu